

The New York Times

© 2017 The New York Times Company

SUNDAY, JANUARY 8, 2017

52 Places to Go in 2017

daily yoga classes, the restaurant will prepare Balinese-Japanese fare, and guests can meditate in terraces elevated amid the palm canopy. Rooms from 9,000,000 Indonesian rupiah (about $671); hoshinoya-bali.com.

INDIA

Alila Fort Bishangarh, Jaipur

It's hard to find a more dramatic setting for a hotel than the towering Fort Bishangarh near Jaipur, a hilltop-walled fortress with gun turrets and six-foot-thick walls offering panoramic views of the Rajasthani region. Fifty-nine suites were added onto and around the 18th-century fort, which will house two restaurants and a spa when the Alila Fort Bishangarh opens in early 2017. Rooms from $280; alilahotels.com/fortbishangarh.

ITALY

Il Castelfalfi, Tuscany

A medieval village, now filled with shops and restaurants, anchors the 2,700-acre Toscana Resort Castelfalfi resort. In April, it will add the 120-room Il Castelfalfi hotel, built to be energy efficient with biomass heating and water and food waste recycling. The new hotel will have a spa and restaurant, and guests will have access to the existing golf course, cooking school and winery. Rooms from 300 euros (about $312); castelfalfi.com.

SOUTH AFRICA

The Silo, Cape Town

The new 28-room Silo hotel, built atop a series of former grain silos on the Victoria & Alfred Waterfront in Cape Town, will open in March. Designed by the architect Thomas Heatherwick, the hotel, its rooftop bar, pool and restaurant will precede the opening of the Zeitz Museum of Contemporary Art Africa in the lower portion of the building, expected in September. Rooms from 12,000 rand (about $853); theroyalportfolio.com/the-silo.

ST. KITTS

Park Hyatt St. Kitts, St. George

In summer, the Park Hyatt St. Kitts will open overlooking the southern strait that separates it from its sibling island of Nevis. The Caribbean property will check in with 126 breezy rooms and suites, the latter with rooftop pools. Expect three restaurants, including an adults-only option in a stone barn, two swimming pools, a rum bar in the plantation-style great house, a spa and nearby golf. Rooms from $380; stkitts.park.hyatt.com.

SWEDEN

At Six, Stockholm

The first Preferred Hotels & Resorts member in Sweden, the design-focused At Six will open in March in central Brunkebergstorg Square. The 343-room hotel puts art at the center of the experience with curated exhibitions. The two-story rooftop restaurant Tak will serve food from the chef Frida Ronge, known for her Nordic-Japanese style. Rooms from $230; hotelsat-six.com.

SWITZERLAND

Bürgenstock Resort Lake Lucerne

On a mountain ridge above Lake Lucerne, the Bürgenstock Resort Lake Lucerne will replace three aging hotels with a 21st-century health resort set on 148 acres. Two of four new or rebuilt properties will open in spring along with 13 restaurants and bars, a golf course, three tennis courts and 43 miles of trails. By year end, expect two more hotels, including a 160-room doctor-staffed wellness lodge. Guests can reach the car-free resort by funicular. Rooms from 150 Swiss francs (about $146); buergenstock.ch.

Las Alcobas, a Luxury Collection Hotel, St. Helena, Calif.

Spy the vineyards just out of view from the coney at Las Alcobas, a new hotel in the Napa Valley that is scheduled to open in early 2017. Six of the property's 68 rooms will be in the 1905-vintage Acacia House, a historic building, along with a seasonal restaurant from the chef Christophe Leung. There is also a five-treatment spa and wineries are within walking distance. Rooms from $695; lasalco.com.

MGM National Harbor, Oxon Hill, Md.

MGM Resorts imported the concept to Maryland with the December opening of MGM National Harbor overlooking the Potomac River just south of Washington. In addition to the 125,000-square-foot hotel, amenities include a 3,000-square-foot spa (coming acts include Sting and Leon); celebrity-chef-run restaurant from Marcus Samuelsson and J. Gray; clothing boutique from Tommy Hilf; Parker; and a metal sculpture by Jaume Plensa. Rooms from $299; mgm.com.

WALES

The Exchange Hotel, Cardiff

The 19th-century Coal Exchange Hotel in Cardiff was badly deteriorated but hotel developer Signature 1 has bought the property, saving the former regal hotel from the coal industry and turning it into a modern hotel. Scheduled to open in early 2017, the Exchange Hotel will also include a dedicated World War I museum. Rooms from $110; exchangehotel.com.

UNITED STATES

21c Museum Hotel Nashville

The art-focused minichain 21c Museum Hotels will head to Nashville in May, transforming the Gray & Dudley Building downtown, a former hardware warehouse, into the 124-room boutique 21c Museum Hotel Nashville. The property will house a 10,500-square-foot contemporary art exhibition space with rotating shows and a restaurant from the chef Levon Wallace. Rooms from $299; 21cmuseumhotels.com/Nashville.

1 Hotel Brooklyn Bridge, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Is this the hotel that lures the tourists from Manhattan? When it opens in February, the 194-room 1 Hotel Brooklyn Bridge on Pier 1 will frame postcard views of the nearby bridge and skyline. The 11th-story rooftop will hold a pool lounge and fire pits, while a glassed-in cocktail lounge one floor below enables year-round swilling. The chef Seamus Mullen will handle food service. Rooms from $350; 1hotels.com/Brooklyn-bridge.